"We took on a huge job. It was the biggest project we had ever tackled before," said Ray Jensen, Seattle Production Manager for Hartung Glass Industries. "Combine that with working with three different locations and to come out as successfully as we did, it was a big undertaking and is something that we're proud of."

Approximately 75% of the project was laminated secure corridor glazing for three passenger concourses of Hamad International Airport and 25% was ¾" monolithic parallelograms for stairwells, escalators and balustrades.

"The project completed was in three phases over three years," says Hartung Northwest vice president Leon Anderson. "The laminated portion of the project was cut, drilled with counter-sunk holes, painted and tempered at Hartung Oregon and then shipped to Hartung Canada where it was laminated and then sent to Hartung Tukwila where it was polished, crated and shipped by air and ocean direct to Qatar."
